ABSTRACT

Data are reported from 113 medical schools on salaries for: budgeted positions for 19,702 strict full-time faculty, 1,988 strict full-time affiliated faculty, 8,687 geographic full-time faculty, and 934 geographic full-time affiliated faculty. A 99 percent rate of response by the institutions surveyed has yielded salary information on a total of 31,311 budgeted faculty positions. Section I of this report contains the fundamental salary data reported for budgeted positions at all medical schools by four nature-of-employment classifications. Regional faculty salary data are presented in detail for budgeted full-time faculty positions in Section II, and data for 65 public and 48 private medical schools appear in Section III. Section IV offers a series of comparison reports from the 1973-74 and 1974-75 surveys, with rates of increase in the weighted mean salary for all academic ranks by nature of employment classification shown. Section V summarizes salary information totals for basic and clinical science departments. (Author/LBH)

Introduction

Conscientious participation in the 1974-75 Medical School Faculty Salary Survey by 113 medical schools is brought to a successful conclusion with the printing of this annual report. The data shown in the following tables include salaries for budgeted positions for 19,702 strict full-time faculty, 1,988 strict full-time affiliated faculty, 8,687 geographic full-time faculty, and 934 geographic full-time affiliated faculty. A 99 percent rate of response by the institutions surveyed has yielded salary information on a total of 31,311 budgeted faculty positions.

Guides to aid the reader in interpreting the series of 74 pages of data tables are as follows: Nature of Employment Definitions - AAMC Faculty Salary Survey, Key to Salary Tables, and Table of Contents. Subgroups of the salary information are indicated by the five major sectional titles identified by roman numerals in the Table of Contents. Caution should be exercised in interpreting any individual cell in the array of data when the "number" of positions is low, since individual variation can have great effect on group statistics in small samples.

Section I contains the fundamental salary data reported for budgeted positions at all medical schools by four nature of employment classifications. Inclusion of nearly 3,000 affiliated faculty positions in this report reflects the cooperative and more complete reporting efforts made by survey participants. Note, however, that data for only the clinical science departments are shown for GFT affiliated faculty in this section. Aggregate information for those geographic full-time and GFT affiliated faculty in the basic science departments are displayed in a summary table in Section V.

Dual designations for the geographic full-time nature of employment refer to "base" and "total" salaries reported. Of the 67 medical schools relating some salary information for GFT positions, 56 were able to provide some information on variable salary components of total GFT faculty salaries. As is customary, only those GFT salaries having a reported variable component greater than zero are included in the tabulations for total GFT salary statistics. It should also be noted that the range of base salaries paid to GFT faculty is great and depends on the compensation schemes employed at any given institution.

Regional faculty salary data is presented in detail for budgeted full-time faculty positions in Section II. Institutional reporting in the four regions is as follows (the number of institutions in each region is shown in parentheses): Northeast - 34 (35), South - 34 (34), Midwest - 29 (29), and West - 16 (16). Consistent with the breakdown in Section I, data for only the clinical science departments is revealed for geographic full-time positions. Regional summaries for GFT faculty in the basic science departments and for affiliated faculty are made available in Section V.

Data for 65 public schools of medicine and 48 private medical schools appear in Section III. Once again, detailed salary information for budgeted positions are shown for strict full-time (all departments), geographic full-time base (clinical science departments only), and geographic full-time total (clinical science departments only). Visual comparison of mean and median salaries generally support the hypothesis that salary scales at private institutions are higher than those at public institutions. However, more variation probably exists among the private institutions than among the public ones.

A special institutional study in which many medical schools have volunteered to participate will examine the distribution of participating schools on pertinent salary dimensions and will attempt to isolate relevant variables, such as degree type, that have significant influence on levels of salaried compensation.

Keen interest in salary trends over time has led to the inclusion of Section IV. This series of comparison reports was generated by including faculty salary data for only those institutions reporting during both the 1973-74 and the 1974-75 surveys. Consequently information received from 105 institutions is contained therein. Since there was a revised departmental listing on the 1974-75 survey instrument, comparison of the data for the two years was accomplished as follows: the basic science departments of biometry, biophysics and genetics, separately identified in the 1973-74 survey, are included in the comparison reports under "other" basic sciences; the departments of basic pathology and clinical pathology have been merged for 1973-74 and the combined total data are shown under pathology as a clinical science; the department designation, "otorhinolaryngology" used in the 1973-74 survey has been changed to "otolaryngology", a more common title; all the surgical subspecialties, with the exception of urology, that were on the 1974-75 listing have been included under "general surgery" for purposes of these comparison reports. A noticeable consequence of the latter change is the reduction of the mean salaries by rank reported for "other" clinical sciences since some institutions chose to report surgical subspecialties in the category "other" clinical on the 1973-74 survey.

The rates of increase in the weighted mean salary for all academic ranks by nature of employment classification shown in Section IV are: strict full-time (basic science departments) = 5.5%; strict full-time (clinical science departments) = 6.1%; geographic full-time base (clinical science departments) = 8.8%; geographic full-time total (clinical science departments) = 6.6%.

There is variation in the levels of salaried compensation and in the rate of change by rank and by department. Salary data for strict full-time faculty in the basic science departments vary somewhat less in levels of salaried compensation and rate of change by rank and by department than do data for the clinical science departments.

Presented for the first time in the history of the faculty salary survey are trend data for geographic full-time faculty. Observations of incoming data under this nature of employment classification have confirmed prior notions that the data is more heterogeneous than the salary data for strict full-time faculty. The heterogeniety can be seen in the statistics for rank of instructor in the departments of dermatology, neurology, and urology. (See pages 61-66.)

No mechanism in the survey exists for identifying faculty with degrees other than the M.D. Nor has recognition been given to the influx of new hires to medical school faculties or to promotions in rank. Throughout the comparison tables and the report in general, consideration of these two factors can partially explain the atypical pattern of change in mean salaries and any unusual levels of salaried compensation for particular departments.

Section V makes available in summary fashion (totals for basic and clinical science departments) salary information not previously published. On pages 67 through 70 data is presented for filled salaried positions for strict full-time, strict full-time affiliated and geographic full-time faculty. Review of these statistics in comparison with those for budgeted positions will reveal insignificant differences in mean and median salaries by rank by department.

Salary data for more than 600 geographic full-time faculty holding appointments in the basic science departments are shown on page 71, and salary data by region and ownership are presented for affiliated faculty on pages 72-73. The final table on page 74 shows the distribution of the total number of budgeted faculty positions which appear by rank and nature of employment.

Nature of Employment Definitions

AAMC Faculty Salary Survey

The definitions of full-time and part-time salaried medical school faculty comprise the following classes of faculty:

SFT — A. Strict full-time medical school faculty are those who receive their entire professional income as a fixed annual amount from funds controlled by the medical school or its parent institution, who devote their full time to the programs of the medical school, and whose professional activities are under the direct auspices of the medical school.

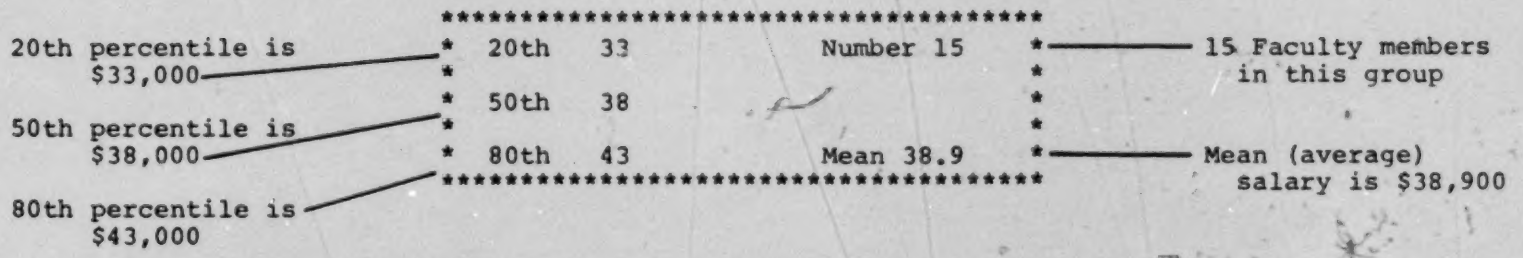
SFTA — B. Strict full-time affiliated faculty are those who receive their entire professional income as a fixed annual amount from one or a variety of sources (medical school, parent institution, owned or affiliated institutions and their parents), devote their full time to the programs of the medical school, but whose professional activities are not under the direct auspices of the medical school.

GFT — C. Geographic full-time medical school faculty are those who receive a fixed salary all or most of which is paid from funds controlled by the medical school, but who may earn variable income from professional activities, who conduct all of their professional work in the institution(s) paying the fixed salary, and whose professional activities are under the direct auspices of the medical school.

GFTA — D. Geographic full-time affiliated faculty are those who receive a fixed salary and who are paid their fixed salary from one or a variety of sources (usually affiliated hospitals) and may earn some variable income from professional activities, and whose professional activities are not under the direct auspices of the medical school.

PTS — E. Part-time salaried medical school faculty are those who receive regular payment for part-time professional activity from funds controlled by the medical school, and whose professional activities are under the direct auspices of the medical school. (Other professional activities and other income are outside the jurisdiction of the medical school.)

KEY TO SALARY TABLES



Note on Computation of Percentile Statistics - The percentile statistics were calculated in the following manner: To obtain the value for the nth percentile statistic, reported salaries were counted in ascending order until the inclusion of a particular reported salary accounted for n percent or more of the reported salaries. No interpolation was performed. As a consequence of this procedure, cells with N=2 show identical values for the 20th and 50th percentile.
